From My Heart...

Someone has said, "The first step to getting the things you want out of life is this: Decide what you want." This sounds obvious, but the fact is that many can't figure out what they want. Most people just have a desire to "be happy."

When we start thinking about what we really want, we learn some things...

First, we learn that we don't really want what we think we want -- not enough to do something about it. We don't want to be healthy enough to give up unhealthy food; we don't want a good family life enough to give up golf; we don't want to change the world enough to sacrifice a little money.

Secondly, we also learn that many of our wants are in conflict with one another.

- we want financial peace but we also want to spend according to our whims
- we want to be leaders but we also want to be ever popular
- we want to be spiritual but we also want to hold on to our favorite sins.

David wrote in Psalms 37:4, "Delight thyself also in the Lord, and He shall give thee the desires of thine heart."

Putting God first empowers us to prioritize our wants -- to eliminate the ones that don't belong on the list, to focus on the things that truly matter. What do you want, really want?

- Is it enough to do something about it?
- Is it enough to do without something else?
- Is it in line with the desires of God's heart?
- Do you know what it is?

Spend some time evaluating yourself, identifying what really are the desires of your heart. Then bring them to God. Lay them at his feet; let him open the windows of blessing in your life.
