From My Heart...

Thanks for worshipping with us today! Our prayer is that your spiritual needs have been met and you leave this place saying it's been good to be in the House of the Lord.

Dr. W. A. Criswell tells of a time that he buried a little girl, sweet, pretty little thing. And after he had said all that he could say to comfort and encourage, he came out of the pulpit and stood at the head of the casket.

The father and mother came for a last look at that sweet but silent little face. And the mother fell down before the casket and began to say sweet and precious words of remembrance and bereavement and sorrow. And she cried and sobbed and said those words, words that would just tear your heart, tears that fell on your very soul. Standing by her side was her husband, the young father of that little girl. He made no gesture of sympathy. He said no word of understanding or consolation.

Dr. Criswell said I wanted to say to him, "Fella, couldn't you just kneel by her side? Couldn't you at least just put your arm around her shoulder? Or at least, couldn't you just put your hand on her head? Just anything to show sympathy, understanding, compassion?" Dr. Criswell said we buried that little thing in the ground and went away, and he showed no interest, no response whatsoever.

- God does not demand of us answers; there are many areas in life where I don't understand.
- God does not require of us solutions. Life is complicated and we can't see our way through it.

But I do think that God expects us to care, that it is a concern to our hearts how people suffer, and whether or not they are saved and lost, and whether or not there is a possibility that we might help and minister.

The heart to care...may we be that church!!!

Preparing People For The Coming Lord,
Bro. Charles

Update on Children's Building

The rain has been a major slow down, but hopefully dry weather is ahead. The new parking lot is in the process with the Engineer and the ADA to fine tune some. The foundation dirt is packed, foundation boards are up and plumbers and electricians should be in soon. Thanks for your prayer and financial report! We are Building for Eternity!!!

Update and Mason Creek

Work continues to try to finish the building projects on the inside. We're averaging 125 in services the first two weeks. There continues to be a great excitement and zeal for the work...one church - two locations.
