From My Heart...

Bro. Aaron shared this a couple of weeks ago in Morning Worship, but it's too good to not share again...Merry Christmas, Bro. Charles

One of America's greatest poets is Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. His diary records the events of the 1860's for us. On July 9, 1861, his wife Fanny's dress caught fire and engulfed her with flames. He desperately tried to put out the fire and save his wife, he was severely burned on his face and hands. Fanny died the next day. In his diary for Christmas day 1861 he wrote, "How inexpressibly sad are the holidays."

In 1862 the toll of war dead began to mount and in his diary for that year Longfellow wrote of Christmas, "A merry Christmas say the children, but that is no more for me."

In 1863 his son who had run away to join the Union army was severely wounded and returned home in December. There is no entry in Longfellow's diary for that Christmas.

But on Christmas Day 1864 – at age 57 – Longfellow sat down to try to capture, if possible, the joy of the season. He began:

I heard the bells on Christmas day,
Their old familiar carols play,
And wild and sweet the words repeat
Of peace on earth, good will to men.

As he came to the third stanza, he was stopped by the thought of the condition of America. The Battle of Gettysburg, days looked dark, and he probably asked himself the question, "How can I write about peace on earth, good will to men in this war-torn country, where brother fights against brother and father against son?" But he kept writing – and what did he write?

And in despair I bowed my head:
"There is no peace on earth", I said,
For hate is strong, and mocks the song
Of peace on earth, good will to men.

It seems as if he could have been writing for our kind of day. Then, as all of us should do, he turned his thoughts to the One who gives true and perfect peace, and continued writing:

Then peeled the bells more loud and deep;
"God is not dead, nor doth he sleep!
The wrong shall fail, the right prevail,
With peace on earth, good will to men."

Scripture of the Month

"I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work."
John 9:4
